

5.2.1 Responsible conduct of research

The evaluation work must be based on good scientific practice (honesty, general care and accuracy), including the declaration of engagements. Panel members are responsible for complying with the National Board of Research Ethics Guidelines for Responsible Conduct of Research, the principles of which are universally accepted by universities and research institutes.